

Undergraduate “Student Ambassador” Program in the SNHS

Purpose Statement:

The Student Ambassador Program in the School of Nursing and Health Studies (SNHS) is designed to cultivate leaders who excel across leadership domains.

These ambassadors inspire change, foster collaboration, and navigate kinesiology and healthcare challenges with adaptability, while leading with integrity, empathy, and innovation.

Hybrid Leadership Style:

- Transformational Leadership : Vision, Innovation, Empowerment.
- Democratic Leadership : Collaboration, Inclusivity, Participation.
- Adaptive Leadership : Flexibility, Resilience, Problem-Solving.
- Collaborative Leadership : Teamwork, Accountability, Conflict Resolution.

Who Can Be a Student Ambassador:

- Enrollment : Must be a current SNHS undergraduate student at Monmouth University.
- Academic Standing : Maintain a minimum GPA as required by your major.
- Leadership Potential : Experience demonstrating leadership qualities and engaging in extracurricular activities or healthcare service.
- Commitment to SNHS Values : Dedicated to representing SNHS values and mission.

Commitment:

- Duration : One-year program.
- Event Participation : Represent SNHS at promotion, advocacy, and/or networking events.
- Leadership Development : Participate in leadership training workshops.
- Promotion : Actively promote SNHS through events and outreach.
- Collaboration : Work with faculty, staff, and students to support school initiatives.

Ambassador Benefits:

- Leadership Development
- Career and Healthcare Field Exploration
- Professional Development
- Resume Building